Artist Statement

‘F-ABSTRACTION’

This exhibition predominantly presents my recent series of ‘Coloursubject’ abstract paintings, which references and plays with the boundaries of an aspect touched upon by the Abstract Expressionists (such as Helen Frankenthaler and Jules Olitski), that to my knowledge, has never really been more deliberately investigated. For reasons of personality, background, and from personal experience, each of us harbours emotive responses and particular associations with specific colours; and my Coloursubject series generally explores the use of a predominant colour forming the key subject matter of the painting, rather than using colour as an element of representation for something else. Certainly, other artists (Ad Reinhardt, Yves Klein etc.) have painted using just a single colour; but for me, their works generally tend to become monotonous emotively, as much as chromatically. Introducing small elements of contrasting colour – limited in a way that patterns or shaped elements don’t override the primary colour as subject and start introducing divergent notions of interpretation – enables a form of visual dialogue or conversation to be created within my paintings, that provides added drama and resonance, without usurping the viewer’s keycolour emotive response.
